ALBERTA PROMISED ANOTHER BIG DEFICIT

Premier Greenfield in Budget Estimates Deficit of Million Dollars During Present Year

Substantial Paring Down Will Take Place in Many Lines of Expenditure—A Big Saving This Year Will Be Made in Capital Expenditures

Premier Greenfield etc—Tak 1.

Although there has been a substantial paring down of expenditures in many lines, particularly in contemplated capital expenditure, the U. F. A. government budget presented in the legislature Monday afternoon by Premier Greenfield estimates a deficit on operations this year of $1,016,239.15. This will make the deficit at least $5,000,000 for the last three years.

Proposed expenditure from collections this year will be $11,170,859.95, the revenue being placed at $10,154,620.80. Last year the revenue exclusive of capital borrowings was $9,324,889.75.

Including $2,600,000 to be spent from income account on provincial telephone and another $7,621,482.74 to be borrowed on capital account for various purposes the total expenditure for 1923 will be $20,376,103.54 according to the estimates.

The estimates reveal practically no clipping of salaries at the "top", as was expected. All the high salaried officials are down for the same remuneration that the estimates of 1922 provided for. There is no reduction in the $2,000 allowance for the members of the legislature. The cabinet ministers are to receive $6,000 each as in the past with sessional indemnity as ordinary members. The speaker's special allowance is still standing at $2,500, with the same for the leader of the opposition.

The big saving in this year's grand total will be in capital borrowings. Last year the estimates called for a capital expenditure of $12,790,535.00, or a total of $27,265,095.91 over all including income account and telephone.

Saving in Capital Expenditure

The outstanding saving in capital expenditure for the present year is in the department of public works there being but $50,000 down for debenture spending on highways, with a vote of $250,000 for maintenance and construction of bridges. Income expenditure on highways will total $130,000 for maintenance and construction on main highways, and $200,000 for market and local roads. The only large items in building expenditure are the vote of $181,207.70 for the provincial training school for the mentally deficient, and $142,475.00 for extensions at the Ponoka mental hospital. The total public works vote from income is this year $1,168,944.82, and from capital $967,363.31, as compared with income and capital votes last year of $1,514,532.78 and $3,331,970.15.

Very little reduction has been made in the votes for the department of education, the income appropriation this year being $2,325,380.00 as compared with $2,486,903.00 last year, with $250,000 for capital in 1922 and $360,000 this year. The university of Alberta asks a grant of $654,530 this year as compared with the vote of $696,140.00 in 1922. Although the number of school inspectors is reduced the vote for this work is $134,550 this year compared with $175,050 last year. Advances to school districts are this year to be $185,000 as against $150,000 estimated in 1922. Loans to normal students is raised from $100,000 last year to $175,000 this year.

Expenditure in the department of agriculture is decreased this year on income account to $554,850 from the the sum of $848,480 voted last year. Capital estimates are $632,270 as against $461,200 in 1922. The sum of $200,000 is asked for the carrying on of extermination of agricultural pests, with a vote of $78,000 for relief work. Calgary and Edmonton exhibitions will again get a grant of $5,000 with other grants to cattle, horse and swine association, and special grants of $4,000 and $2,000 to the fat stock shows.

Public health operations will not be greatly curtailed as a result of the government's pruning. The expenditure this year calles for a vote of $907,180.00, compared with the $990,995.00 voted last year.

Only $676,871 will be borrowed for telephone extensions this year according to the estimates, as against $2,000,000 last year. For railway capital expenditure $1,983,931.84 worth of bonds will be sold.

Revenue Estimates

Revenue estimates show that $1,628,638.23 will be obtained in dominion subsidy, with another $640,000 in interest from sale of school lands. Most local sources of revenue are admitting a decrease from last year on the basis of last year's collections. For instance the amusement tax of 1922 was estimated to yield $300,000.00 whereas the return was but $183,933.00. This year the estimate is $200,000. The tax on gasoline was estimated to yield $264,000.00 and the actual return was $185,118.53. This year the estimated revenue is $230,000. The motor vehicles act last year yielded $716,450.00 instead of the $740,900 estimated, and the vote this year is $719,000.00. Likewise there is a drop in the corporation tax act, this Increases include public debt advance of $378,437.00 due to capital borrowings last year; increase in public health estimates of $88,386.36. General administration costs will be $35,521.27 higher than in 1922, while miscellaneous appropriations will be $113,104.47 more than in 1922.

Sarah Bernhardt Passes Peacefully Away in Arms Of Son After Long Illness

Great Actress Astonished Her Physicians by Her Repeated Rallies and Her Will to Live Just as She Did Last December When Hope Was Abandoned

PARIS, March 26.—Sarah Bernhardt died peacefully in the arms of her son, Maurice, at one minute before eight o'clock tonight. In life, she had an amazing power of emotion, of marvellous realism and pathos in her acting of death scenes. At the end of her days she quietly drifted away into eternity, tired after her long fight against death, which she did not wish, but never feared.

Hope for the life of the great actress had long since been abandoned and a half an hour before she died those in attendance found her sinking beyond recovery, though knowing her recuperative powers, it was thought she might live throughout the night.

Death was due to a renewed attack of uraemic poison, which began Friday, but the actress astonished her physicians by her repeated rallies and her will to live, just as she did last December when hope had several times been abandoned. A priest was summoned hurriedly in the middle of the afternoon when symptoms of the gravest nature supervened, but Bernhardt rallied and regained lucidity. The priest administered extreme unction which she acknowledged with faint movements of the hands and head, too weak to speak.

The widow of Edmund Rostand, whose fame is likened with that of Bernhardt, and the poet's son, Maurice Rostand, were at the bedside.

Many Hundred Callers

Many hundreds of friends, persons prominent in all walks of life and others little known but quite as dear to Bernhardt, called during the three days of her last illness, but few of them were permitted to see her. Aside from the members of the household and family and her closest intimates, only Dr. Marot and the other physicians visited the sick room.

Messages of sympathy came from all the world and from all parts of France.friends journeyed to Paris so they might come personally to the house to make inquiries and leave an expression of their affection; the whole world seemed to be watching with the doctors, hoping for recovery, but regretfully realizing that a great career was ending.

Her Last Caller

Arthur Mayer, editor of Le Gaulois, who has known Mme. Bernhardt for many years, was the last caller; he arrived five minutes before her death, but, realizing what was happening, left without seeing her. Just as he departed the windows of the bed chamber closed and a moment later Dr. Marot appeared and informed the newspapermen who had been keeping watch day and night—"Mme. Sarah Bernhardt has just expired in the arms of her son. With her were Maurice Rostand, Mme. Edlond Rostand, and her grandson, Monsieur Grosse."

Bernhardt's last stage role, in Sacha Guitry's play "Un Sujet De Roman," was never filled; she insisted she would appear but the doctors and her family interfered and prevented her. Her last appearance was in the motion picture made in her home, which remains unfinished.

Poet, Novelist, Painter, Sculptor

Three score and one years on the stage did not fill her life; she found time to be poet, novelist, painter and sculptor, yet she seemed never too busy to see her many friends and was always seeking something more to do.

The loss of her right leg at the beginning of the war caused her to limit her movements on the stage, but did not hinder her appearances. She took misfortune bravely, played for the soldiers and used to the utmost her wonderful voice, which seemed never to tire; only of late years had it begun to lose something of its marvellous quality. Her inability to walk well and the increasing disabilities of age of late greatly restricted her stage roles, and latterly has appeared only seated.

Investigate Alberta Coal

Ontario Government Securing Samples to Test—Will Try to Secure Reasonable Freight Rates

TORONTO, March 26.—The Ontario government is investigating the feasibility of getting the coal supply for this province from Alberta. Hon. Howard Ferguson in the legislature this afternoon got this information from Premier Drury when he asked what was being done to prevent a coal shortage next winter like the one which had caused so much misery this year.

"For some weeks this government has been in communication with the government of Alberta regarding coal," said Premier Drury. "We have arranged to get a few cars down to test its fuel value. We are hoping that we can get a freight rate on the National railways that will make the transportation of large supplies of coal feasible. After studying the situation I have more faith in a solution of the difficult problem by bringing in Alberta coal than I have in either the development of peat or the importation of eastern coal, at least for this year."

Second reading was given a bill making equal guardianship as between parents for children. If they cannot agree on the guardianship the court may decide.

A law giving councils the right to pass bylaws compelling factories and offices to observe a half holiday a week during July and August, providing the people vote favorably, was given second reading.

U.S. TO REPLY TO ALLIES ON REPARATIONS

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The answer of the secretary of state Hughes to the second proposal of allied representatives looking for the settlement of the United States claims for repayment of the costs of maintaining the American army of occupation in Germany will be delivered in Paris tomorrow.

The impression was given in official quarters that the reply indicated a willingness on the part of the Washington government to deduct from the total amount of its claims the value of German property which came into possession of the United States army as a result of the armistice.

Unofficial reports from Paris fix this amount at about 53,000,000 gold marks.

PARTICIPATION IN WAR BY CAN. IS DISCUSSED IN DOMINION HOUSE

Quebec Liberal Member Raises Question of Canada Being Committed to War

MUST BE BY CONSENT

Debate on Patriotism Occupies Attention of House During Late Hour

OTTAWA, March 26.—At a late hour tonight the house opened discussion on the question of Canadian participation in war. C. G. Power, (Liberal, Quebec South), raised the subject on a resolution which has been standing on the order paper in his name since the opening of the session, a resolution that "in the opinion of this house, it is expedient to declare that save in the case of actual invasion the dominion of Canada shall not be committed to participation in any war without the consent of the parliament of Canada.

Arguments which were apt to be advanced in favor of Canada's participation in Great Britain's wars, said Mr. Power, were sentimental, moral and legal, or constitutional. In the first category, he said, came "the call of the blood." His reply to this argument was that Great Britain was not Canada's mother. It was French explorers who settled first and French missionaries who colonized; yet no member of the house, he supposed, would consider that Canada must participate in all France's wars. If it were a matter of blood, then the United States would be under a greater obligation than Canada, since there are more Anglo-Saxons there. In Canada were people of every race and Canada did not do her duty to them unless she made it possible for them to carry on their business in peace and security.

Moral Argument

As to the moral argument of having been protected by Great Britain's army and navy, Mr. Power contended that Canada "had not been protected to any great extent" and that Great Britain had in the main acted towards Canada "with her own interests at heart rather than those of Canada." There was no copyright on freedom, said Mr. Power, and Canada could just as well have developed her free institution under the protection of some other power. During colonial days there was no question of obligation to aid in defence of the empire, Mr. Power stated. At the time of the Soudan war Sir J. A. MacDonald said reciprocal aid between the colonies and England should be a matter of treaty. In the South African war Sir Wilfrid Laurier had claimed for Canada the right to decide on entering into wars.

Under No Obligation

In September last Canada was under no treaty or other obligation to send troops to the Near East. The government acted wisely and deserved the thanks of the dominion for its decision. Participation in future wars should be a matter of treaty and only on consent of parliament.

T. G. McBride, (Progressive, Cariboo), asked Mr. Power if he considered "Canada would not be in honor bound to support Britain whenever Britain was endangered."

Mr. Power replied he understood that in 1914 Canada was practically pledged to go to war with Britain. What he now proposed was an attempt to prevent any future entanglements through which war could not be avoided.

Britain in 1914 found she had restrained her liberty or action in the case of aggressive war on the part of Germany and therefore could not avoid entering the war. Canada's leaders were not as well versed in international politics as were British statesmen and the object of the resolution was to prevent Canada finding herself in a position similar to that of Britain in 1914.

P. F. Casgrain adjourned the debate at 11:45.

FARM LABORERS IN OLD COUNTRY OUT ON STRIKE

NORWICH, Eng., March 26.—All the farm laborers of Norfolk county were called out on strike today when the executive committee of the farmers' union rejected the proposal of the laborers for a three month's truce in order to place the entire problem before the government.

The laborers have not been contending for an advance in wages. The strike has not yet become general, many of the men, notably laborers of the Earl of Kimberley's estate, being reluctant to join the movement. These men are receiving thirty shillings per week, as against 25 shillings offered to the laborers by the farmers generally.

The laborers on King George's Sandringham estate are disobeying the strike call.

HON. CAMERON DIES ON TRAIN; HEART FAILURE

Judge of the Manitoba Appeal Court Passes Away Suddenly Near St. Paul

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 26.—Hon. J. D. Cameron, puisne judge of the Manitoba court of appeal, died suddenly on a train here late today. Heart disease was given as the cause of death.

Mr. Justice Cameron was on his way back to Winnipeg after a trip to St. Paul. According to a porter who carried his grips to the train, Mr. Justice Cameron seemed in distress and breathed heavily. When he reached his seat in the coach he collapsed. He died within a few minutes.

The body is being held at the county morgue here pending advices from relatives.

Hon. John Donald Cameron was a son of the late John Cameron of Woodstock, Ontario, and was of Highland Scottish descent. Born in 1858, he was educated in Woodstock and at the University of Toronto, where he graduated as gold medalist in classics and mathematics and Prince of Wales prize man.

Called to Bar in 1882

Called to the Ontario bar in 1882, he came to Manitoba and was called to the bar of this province in the same year, and was for many years in active practice in Winnipeg.

Mr. Justice Cameron was for many years a bencher of the Law Society of Manitoba. A Liberal in politics, he first was elected for South Winnipeg in the Manitoba legislature in 1892, and was re-elected for the same constituency on three occasions. In 1892 he entered the Greenway administration as provincial secretary, and in 1896 was one of the commissioners for Manitoba in the historic conference at Ottawa on the Manitoba school question.

Upon the retirement of Hon. Clifford Sifton from the Manitoba government in 1896, Mr. Justice Cameron was appointed attorney-general of Manitoba. In 1908 he was called to the court of King's Bench, as one of the puisne judges, and two years later was appointed a justice of the court of appeals.

Mr. Justice Cameron was unmarried. He was a Presbyterian.

CITY CHARTER BILL RECEIVES THIRD READING

Brief But Spirited Battle Takes Place Over Edmonton Charter Amendments

Edmonton charter amendments finally obtained third reading in the legislature, but only after another brief but spirited battle which took place shortly before the house adjourned at 10:30 Monday night.

When the bill came up for final disposition Fred White, Labor member for Calgary, moved that it be recommitted to the committee of the house for the purpose of amending the clause establishing a Wednesday half holiday for the months of May, June, July, August. He proposed that the month of September be included.

The motion for recommital was debated for a time, with Messrs. Boyle, McLennan, Bowen and others opposing the proposal. Upon a division being called for, the motion was defeated by a vote of 29 to 15.

The house went into discussion during the night session of the act to facilitate the borrowing of money for the purchase of seed grain, the bill being reported from committee practically without change.

Wetaskiwin charter amendments were given third reading.

BANKRUPTS ACT SUBJECT DEBATE; GOUIN PROMISES AN AMENDMENT

The Quebec Members Are Strongest in Their Objection to Measure

MINISTER OF JUSTICE DEFENDS MEASURE

Casgrain Has a Resolution That Act Be Amended or Abrogated

OTTAWA, March 26.—(Canadian Press)—Arguments for and against the maintenance of the bankruptcy act were heard in the house of commons today on a resolution by P. F. Casgrain (Liberal, Charlevoix-Montmorency), that the act should be "amended or abrogated." Opposition to the act came mainly from Quebec French-speaking members. There were claims that the act had staged a commercial tragedy in Quebec—a tragedy in which the actors were the assignee, the trustee, the registrar, the creditors and the judge.

Sir Lomer Gouin, minister of justice, urged on the other hand, that the social and economic needs of Canada demanded a uniform law on bankruptcy. Were the act repealed, Sir Lomer was confident that agitation would be started to place another bankruptcy act on the statute book. He further intimated that an amending bill would be brought down this session.

Mr. Casgrain sought to amend his motion by striking out the words "or abrogated," but was informed that he could not amend his own motion, and a little later the discussion ended by Mr. Casgrain withdrawing his resolution.

Sir Lomer Gouin, minister of justice, reviewed the history of bankruptcy legislation in Canada, pointing out that Quebec was the first province (in 1839) to adopt insolvency law which provided for the discharge of the debtor.

"The social and economic needs of the country," said Sir Lomer, "demanded a uniform law on bankruptcy, and I am a good judge of public feeling. I believe that a majority of the people of Canada, Quebec included, are in favor of a bankruptcy law provided it is fair."

As to the farmers being excluded from the operation of the law, he could not see why the benefits of a bankruptcy law should be limited to merchants and manufacturers. As to fraudulent trustees it would be easy to find a way to punish them. He suggested that the dominion law might be amended by the inclusion of the good features in the Quebec law.

City to Reserve Tar Sands

Coal Mining Under City Causes Damage to Streets—Commissioners to Investigate

The reservation of a block of McMurray tar sands to insure the city against future requirements for paving material providing a suitable method of extracting the bitumen be found, was approved by council at a meeting Monday night and the commissioners were instructed to make the necessary arrangements with the department of the interior.

According to present arrangements as stated by the Hon. Chas. Stewert, minister of the interior, in a communication to council, a lease could not be granted unless there was some indication of immediate development, but in the case of the city, a block of tar sands could be reserved against future requirements. The city could secure a lease at any time that it was desired to develop the tar sands.

The request for a lease was made by the city with the object of insuring against the future, with no intention of immediate development. It was stated by some of the members of council that the city had no right to hold the tar sands without developing them. The majority, however, argued that the city had every right to reserve a block of tar sands, as they were the natural resources of the province and it was the privilege of every city to ask for a certain portion against future needs.

Streets Damaged

As a result of a report of damage to streets and underground waterpipes due to undermining the streets, the commissioners and the city solicitor were instructed to determine whether there was some means of protecting the interests of the city. Commissioner Yorath reported that a serious condition was developed immediately north of the intersection of 76th street and 119th avenue due to a very extensive land slide caused through mining operations of the Standard mine. The pavement had been cracked and the earth had moved to such an extent that the water main had been disconnected.

Protect the City

Ald. Gollisson pointed out that the mineral rights did not belong to the dominion government as the land had been Indian script and all rights had been given with the surface rights. The dominion government as a result would not be responsible, but some law could be passed regulating mining under a city so as to protect the surface.

Dr. McPherson representing the Edmonton board of health requested council to increase the estimates of the board to the figure which had been submitted. It was pointed out by Dr. McPherson that the requirements of the board had been increased and it was necessary to have additional funds in order to carry on.

Mayor Duggan stated that arrangements might be made by cutting down in other departments to raise sufficient funds to meet the requirements of the board.

Utilities' Earnings

The report of the earnings of the utilities for February which was submitted to council showed a considerable reduction in comparison to the same month last year. Commissioner Yorath stated that the reduction which amounted to somewhat over $19,000 was due to a falling off in street car traffic and reduction in rates. On the other hand a reserve fund of $12,000 had been set aside for the power plant, against $2,500 last year while a reserve of $8,000 had been set aside for the electric light department. There was no reserve for this department last year. A reserve of $6,500 had been set aside for the street railway department against $6,565 last year. The total reserve set aside this year amounted to $26,500 in comparison to $8,750 last year.

The receipts of the street railway department had shown a falling off during the months. There was no reason for this, but it had been noticed in every city in the west.

Will Stop Dealers

A resolution in connection with sale of produce on the city market was passed which stipulated that only bona fide producers will be allowed to sell produce in the future, and that they would be allowed to sell in any quantities they wished. The request from the retail butchers to prevent farmers from selling meat in less than quarters was turned down by council.

RURAL CREDIT SYSTEM WILL BE CONTINUED

WINNIPEG, March 26.—Manitoba's rural credit system will continue to operate, Premier Bracken announced in the provincial legislature tonight, speaking on the budget debate. The government proposes to make the scheme self-supporting and borrowers will be called upon to pay the full cost of the loans. This will probably mean a small increase in interest rates. Slight amendments will be made in the act along certain lines suggested in the Jackman-Collyer report, which condemned many features of the system.

Study will be made into tax problems with the view of covering the levy in Manitoba, and reduction will be made in the municipal commissioner's levy as there is a provincial surplus, the premier stated.

OLEO DEBATE IN LEGISLATURE ENDS IN DEFEAT OF RESOLUTION

Jos. Dechene Urged That Sale Be Prohibited in the Dominion

MUCH COMEDY AND REPARTEE

U. F. A. Members Declare That the Dairy Industry Needs No Favors

Coming back into the house right on the heels of the annual budget, Oleomargarine mixed up the legislative assembly Monday afternoon and evening in a most bewildering manner, and when finally turned out again on a formal division, it had the official sanction and blessing of the U. F. A. administration with a government vote of 30 against 12.

Joseph Dechene, liberal member for Beaver River, was the mover of a resolution urging that the federal parliament be asked to prohibit the sale of oleo in the dominion, inasmuch as it is detrimental to the interests of the dairy industry in Canada. He proposed it in the house last Friday and continued the debate Monday after the premier had delivered the budget speech. Speaker after speaker on the U. F. A. side of the house pounced on the little motion and attacked the mover and other supporters from the liberal side with breach of faith in free trade principles. They, one and all, declared that the dairy industry needed no favors and had nothing to fear from the competitive sale of oleo.

Intermingled with the political side of the debate was comedy and reparte without end, Hon. J. R. Boyle turning the tables on N. S. Smith, U. F. A. member for Olds and president of the Alberta Dairymen's association, who had warmly advocated no special privileges for the dairy business at the expense of free trade principles, but at the same time told of difficulties in finding markets abroad for the butter surplus of the province. Mr. Boyle read resolutions which Mr. Smith had moved in the dairymen's conference last February which urged the prohibition of the "importation, manufacture and sale of olemargarine in Canada." Even Mr. Smith's colleagues enjoyed his discomfiture when the liberal leader read the resolutions.

The vote, which was taken after Mr. Dechene had closed the debate with a particularly brilliant but brief speech, found several U. F. A. members out of the house, four others supporting the resolution.

The resolution which Mr. Dechene proposed reads as follows: "Resolved, that in the opinion of this house the government of the province should request the dominion government to oppose any legislation which may be introduced into parliament permitting oleomargarine to be sold in this dominion, as such legislation would be detrimental to the producers of dairy products in the province of Alberta."

For the resolution there voted—Messrs. Sparks, Moore, McKeen and Milne of the U. F. A. forces; Messrs. Boyle, Cote, Tobin, Mills, Dechene, McLennan, Heffernan and Bowen, liberals.

Against the resolution the register was—Messrs. Greenfield, Brownlee, Mrs. Parlby, V. W. Smith, Baker, Love, Matheson, MacLachlan, Cameron, Galbraith, N. S. Smith, Shield Joly, Andrews, St. Arnaud, Buckley, Farquharson, Peterson, Cook, W. C. Smith, G. W. Smith, Stringam, G. N. Johnson, Sanders, Proudfoot, Conner, Fedun, Chornohus, Mrs. McClung.

Messrs. Marshall (liberal) and W. M. Davidson (independent) paired.

The three labor members did not vote. S. Brown, High River also declined to register.

Premier Greenfield in Budget Estimates Deficit Of Million Dollart During Present Year

yielding $462,691.33 in 1922 against an estimate of $519,310. This year the item is placed at $470,000.00. Last year the mine owners tax act (tax on coal) was expected to turn $576,700 into the treasury but it gave $282,690 instead. This year the estimate is $285,000.

Proposed New Taxes

The proposed new tax on soft drinks is expected to bring $50,000; the new tax on slot machines $150,000; mineral rights tax $300,000; and increases in the succession duties tax act $45,000 more, or $150,000 over all.

The supplementary revenue tax is expected to return $1,400,000.00 this year as against $1,600,000 last year; wild lands tax $500,000 as compared with $650,000 in 1922.

Revenue under the liquor act is only estimated at $550,000 against the $900,000 derived from this source last year.

The galleries were filled when the house opened, in expectation of the budget speech which had been delayed until the tenth week of the session. Premier Greenfield, who is still troubled with a bad throat and hoarseness, delivered the speech in good style and was accorded hearty applause at the finish.

In regard to the sessional indemnities the only reference was that in which the premier intimated that the subject of reduction should be appropriate for 1924.

Hon. Charles Mitchell, Bow Valley, adjourned the debate after the premier finished which was four o'clock, exactly one hour being occupied in the presentation of the budget.

The permier spoke as follows:

Mr. Speaker—I now move that this House go into Committee of Supply for the consideration of the estimates.

In doing so I shall briefly review the financial operations of the past year. I shall also refer in a summary way to the estimates of the current year and show what we may expect to accomplish in the way of greater economy in the public expenditure with the desired object of making our income and expenditure balance as nearly as possible.

In these times of world-wide economic disturbance and local adverse conditions of agricultural production the balancing of the budget is fraught with many difficulties which are not confined to the province alone. Other provinces as well as municipalities have similar conditions to contend with.

In the year 1922 our current revenue fell short of our expenditure by $1,910,302.49. This is somewhat less than the previous year's deficit for which, of course, this administration was not responsible, but the 1922 shortage occurred in spite of considerable savings in the various departments, which I will show in detail later on. The point I desire to make clear, however, is that the position is not due so much to the lack of economy as to shortage in revenue estimated.

Several factors have contributed to a curtailment of revenue. First, there was a considerable loss in the Coal Operators Tax due to strikes and other causes, but there was too a shrinkage caused by general economic conditions in this province. According to a statement prepared by one of the large Canadian Banks (the Canadian Bank of Commerce) the crop values in Alberta for the years 1921 and 1922 combined were less than the year 1920 by about $28,000,000, the actual figures for the three years being as follows:

1922	$94,369,600
1921	$82,780,000
1920	$204,291,500

It may or may not be significant that in the year 1920 there was a surplus of our revenue over expenditure, while in the two following years there were deficits, but there is no doubt that general conditions of prosperity in this province are reflected in a more bouyant condition of our finances. I should like to emphasize this fact since it is very apparent from year to year that large or small collections of government revenue are a reflex of the general financial welfare of the people.

I have before me a statement showing a comparision between the revenue and expenditure and the expenditure and the estimates for the year 1922. On the revenue side the first deficiency we might refer to is receipts from school lands which are only $581,189.11 being short of the estimate by $268,000. This may be put down to poor conditions in the country, making the usual collections of principal and interest a hardship. The next discrepancy is in the department of the Attorney General where the total receipts were $2,241,389.55 against $3,043,910 estimated, a shortage of $802,500. This is accounted for in certain adjustments in capitalizing liquor stocks which were shown in the estimates, but upon which no action was taken, it having been decided that little was to be gained at the present time by capitalizing the liquor stock for its full value. The policy of the late government in this regard has therefore been continued.

The municipal affairs department collected $1,830,807.29 against an estimate of $2,555,500 a shortage of $724,692. This is entirely due to adverse conditions in the country.

These amounts I have mentioned are the chief items that go to make up our shortage of revenue on the amount estimated which amounted to $2,432,130.06 but reductions in revenue are apparent in almost all branches of all departments.

Now coming to the expenditure side it will be remembered that last year when the Budget was brought down showing a deficit of $272,841.97 I stated that every effort would be made to save that amount in the administration of departments during the year. On making a comparison of actual expenditure for the year 1922 with estimates I find a condition which I believe is unique in this province, and which in any case is proof that our efforts towards economy have been successful to some extent. In every department of the government service without exception there was a saving on the estimates, and the total savings on all departments amounted to $762,231.26. The only large general appropriation on which no saving was made was public debt, which as you know consists of fixed charges.

If proof is required that this government has the interests of the tax payer at heart there is the evidence. And, I wish to add that this policy will be continued into the future, and that whenever it is apparent sufficiently early in the year that our revenue may fall short of expectations there will be a relative curtailment of expenditures to whatever limit may be possible.

I will give you in detail the saving effected in the various general votes:

On civil government it amounted to $86,731. Not only was this saving effected over the estimates, but we reduced the previous year's civil government expenditure by $58,570.64. On legislation there was a saving of $35,620.51. Administration of justice, $163,286.36; public works 216,296.83; education $42,213.46; agriculture and statistics $30,623.39; public health $167,198.36; railways and telephones, railway branch, $3,592.69; general administration purposes $16,683.22.

In the past there have been years where occasional savings have been effected in odd general votes, but a careful examination of our records show that 1922 is the first year in which the column showing increases over estimated expenditures is practically a blank. We have at least accomplished something and if our revenues had been reasonably bouyant a small surplus would probably have been recorded.

When the government came into power in August 1921 it assumed very heavy obligations. The public debt through heavy capital expenditure had reached large proportions, in fact it had amounted so ponderously that the momentum followed into the year 1922 with an increase in fixed charges over 1921 (by reason of the very heavy new borrowings in 1921) of $857,115.27 and it will continue to have its effect until our population is large enough and rich enough to contribute more in taxation. Now it is possible for us to reduce charges which are not fixed although this too is not an easy matter, but fixed charges of such large proportions as to absorb most of our income is a burden that we assume only because we must assume it, nor do we wish to complain, but I desire to have the people of this province understand clearly that the sympathetic co-operation of all classes of our citizenship is required in whatever efforts may be necessary to reinstate our expenditure program to an amount that will fall reasonably within our income. In short, if expenditures in future are reduced and even old services abandoned there should be support of such a policy from all classes as all will benefit from such a policy.

Taking the year 1922 as a whole there were strong tendencies to economy apparent throughout the service, although unfortunately efforts in this direction were set back by calls on the treasury for relief work.

In addition to the main services requiring the expenditure of public monies, which were more or less an inheritance from past governments, there were the large demands on the public purse for hay and relief work, and the destruction of grasshoppers. The amount expended for these purposes alone exceeded $690,000 and $511,000 respectively, aggregating an unavoidable outlay of over one million dollars for the year 1922.

Capital expenditure and refunding of old maturing loans required the flotation of some $15,294,000 during the year. Good prices were received on all these issues, and they were readily absorbed by the buying public, which is evidence not only of confidence in the security of Alberta bonds, but also of good judgment in placing them on the market at the opportune time when the market was most receptive.

The Farmer's Position

It may be generally expected in a province of such large area as Alberta that agricultural conditions will vary according to locality. In the year 1922 it was the northern portion of the province that suffered from dought while the south for the most part had sufficient moisture excepting in restricted areas.

The gross output of agricultural products would bear fair comparison with the average production in recent years. This, however, is not due to a heavy crop so much as to the large area under cultivation. The low prices prevailing for farm products too will affect the general prosperity that should follow even in those districts that have done unusually well.

The estimated yield and value of agricultural products for the year 1922 as prepared by the provincial department of agriculture amounted to $150,488,000 (see statement No. 1).

On the whole it may be said that the crop of 1922 while not at all small has scarcely been of sufficient value to meet the farmer's current obligations for the year. Various factors contributing to high cost of production, together with low prices for cattle and grain, are responsible for this condition.

This province, under previous administrations, brought into operation legislation for the purpose of assisting the development of the agricultural industry and I desire to deal briefly with some of them.

The live stock encouragement Act better known as the "Cow Bill' has not been the success that was anticipated by those responsible for its inauguration and has proved to be very costly in its operation. The loaning of funds under the Act for the purchase of female cattle has been discontinued.

The estimates make provision for taking up from the bank overdue payments under the act to the amount of $300,000.

Very heavy advances have been made in past years for seed grain and feed relief purposes, amounting in the aggregate to $7,798,269.98.

This policy has also been discontinued, but it is quite apparent that the province will eventually be called upon to meet heavy losses in connection with this service.

The fact that the government has been able to announce that there will be no more advances for seed grain and feed relief should be taken as a decidedly encouraging sign. In the opinion of the government this condition is very largely due to the operation of the drought area relief act.

I mention this because there has been a tendency to estimate the benefits of the working of this act solely from the standpoint of either creditor or debtor and not from the standpoint of the benefit to the province as a whole in preparing the way for the final elimination of seed grain relief.

As time goes on, it is being brought home to the farmers and also the financial institutions that both lender and borrower would, in many instances, be in a better position to meet the present difficult situation if credit had not been so freely given and obtained the more favorable years.

The Dairy Industry

Our dairy industry for 1922 presents a pleasing picture. The producers who were within reach of creameries and cheese factories enjoyed a steady market for their surplus milk and cream, and a comparatively high price level. There was a 16 per cent increase in the production of creamery butter as compared with that of the previous year, and very distinct progress has been made towards re-etsablishing the high quality standard of our creamery butter of a few years ago. This improvement in quality was due largely to the change in the cream marketing arrangements following the amendment to the Dairymen's Act at the last regular session of the legislature. There has been in evidence a praiseworthy measure of co-operation between the cream producers on the one hand and the creamery operators on the other to bring about this important reform, and it is safe to say that those who are most concerned are facing this year's dairying activities with confidence.

Fifty-four creameries were operated in the province during 1922 and manufactured aproximately fifteen and one quarter million pounds of butter with a selling value of over $5,000,000. This quantity represents about seven hundred car loads of which something like four hundreds and thirty were exported to British Columbia and other markets beyond the province. The commissioners of the dominion department of agriculture recently visited and studied the produce markets in Britain and stated at the provincial Dairy Convention held in Calgary in January that the creamery butter which had been received in Great Britain from the western provinces was regarded with considerable favor by people in the trade who had occasion to handle it.

Fourteen cheese factories were also in operation in Alberta during the past year and manufactured close to one million pounds of cheese. There is every indication that the cheese industry, like the creamery butter industry will show a steady and marked increase from year to year.

The department of agriculture estimates that the total value of the past year's production of dairy products was $22,950,000.

Egg and Poultry Marketing.

Practical assistance in the marketing of eggs and poultry was extended to three thousand eight hundred farmers during the year 1922 through the egg and poultry marketing service, the dominion department of agriculture co-operating in this work. The business turnover slightly exceeded $250,000. Through this service seven car loads of dressed turkeys were placed on the eastern and western Canadian markets, the killing, grading and packing for the most part being done at community centres, the turkey growers themselves assisting.

Fourteen thousand five hundred cases of eggs were marketed, equivalent to 29 car loads, and slightly over one-half million pounds of poultry. Four car loads of eggs were sold on the British market, seven on the Montreal, Winnipeg and Toronto markets and the remainder locally. The policy in this connection has been to return a graded price to the producer and demonstrate the monetary advantage of producing high quality.

Eighty-one organized groups of farmers took advantage of the service during the year.

The pooling and co-operative shipping of car load lots of live poultry was introduced by the poultry branch of the government service. In all fifteen cars of live poultry were moved from various country points to Edmonton resulting in a saving to the producers of from $1 to $5 per cwt. in transportation. The poultry industry in the Peace River country will be greatly stimulated by this innovation. The movement of live poultry in car lots to both eastern Canadian and British Columbia markets was also shown to be practicable. One car was taken to Montreal and five to Vancouver during the year. Heretofore the entire crop of surplus small poultry has been killed and frozen and sold as cold storage poultry, a commodity usually difficult to move. The ability to market a portion of the crop in a live condition will prove a great advantage to the producers in the future.

Success in co-operative marketing in these importat branches of the agricultural industry, are an indication of the possibilities of co-operative marketing.

In dealing with the agricultural industry in a governmental way during past years, too much stress has be on laid on the question of increased production to the neglect of the more important question of the intelligent marketing of farm products, and, while the government will still recognize the importance of educational work in the interests of increased production coupled with a higher grade of product, special attention and closer study will be given to the development of co-operative marketing, with a view to eliminating as far as may be, any unnecessary charges on farm products between the producer and the consumer.

The Coal Industry.

The coal industry in the past year has been greatly handicapped, but in spite of an idle summer in most sections and strikes in the northern districts late in the year the total output of all kinds of coal amounted to 58,976,382 tons with a value of $27,551,121.

With such production under adverse conditions there is no doubt that in near future Alberta will be the largest coal producing province in the dominion by a wide margin. (See statement No. 3.) There were 282 coal mines in operation on 31st December, 1922, as compared with 273 mines at the same date in 1921.

Alberta coal through educational and demonstration work carried on in the province of Manitoba by the Alberta government through its fuel engineers, in co-operation with the mine-operators, has become firmly established on its merit in the Manitoba market, and every effort is now being made and will be made throughout the year to break into the eastern markets with Alberta coal.

Manufacturing.

The depression suffered in the manufacturing industry in Alberta at the close of the war and for some time subsequent has to some extent lifted and industry is improving.

Concerns whose market for products is not wholly local have been greatly increasing their outputs. This is true of the milling industry, lumbering and northern fisheries, and the clay industries at Medicine Hat.

Telephone Department.

The policy of the telephone department during the year past has been to keep the capital expenditure to a minimum. No work was done unless the expenditure could be justified by the expected revenue.

Our reports show that operating and maintenance expenses were reduced by $67,587, compared with the previous year notwithstanding the fact that the plant was increased to a point where it earned $112,274 over the previous year.

Our interest bill increased $357,132.69 during the period. These interest charges are of course uncontrollable and are chiefly the result of the large construction program of 1920 and 1921, and the unnecessarily large stocks carried on hand. The balance of net earnings for the year is $324.55 after taking care of all the fixed charges of the department. Under present conditions a larger surplus for the reserve was not to be expected and it must be considered that conditions in business generally must improve before the finances of the department can show a more favorable balance.

With an improvement in economic conditions in this province and a reasonably good crop we will be assured of better results in 1923 than in 1922. The policy of strict economy both in regard to capital and operating expenditures will be maintained as in the past.

Rural Credits in Alberta.

In the year 1921 there were in operation seven rural credit societies, while during the year 1922 there were twenty-two societies in full operation.

We have loaned out to these societies $585,920, and at the 31st December, 1922, had collected $293,456, or approximately 50 per cent. Since that date we have made further collections of approximately 10 per cent.

Owing to the varied conditions in this province this carry over requires some explanation. In some districts the farmers do not sell their grain, but rather feed it to stock and then sell the stock. In this case we do not get our reduction until the late spring. In other districts owing to congestion in the elevators and in the car situation farmers have been unable to sell their grain. Again, in some districts the farmers have sold their threshed grain, paid up their total obligations and re-borrowed for the purpose of purchasing feeder cattle to consume the roughage around the farm. In all these cases cited the returns will not be made until the late spring, as mentioned above.

It is estimated that when returns are complete the reductions made by all societies will average between 65 per cent and 70 per cent. The remaining 30 per cent to 35 per cent. comprises loans which owing to poor economic conditions remain unpaid, and also includes advances for summer fallowing and breaking, which the act allows to be carried over until the following year.

It is quite noticeable in nearly every district where a co-operative credit society is in operation that there has been a great deal of summer fallowing and breaking done during the last year, this land being prepared for better farming during the year 1923. It is only reasonable to expect that some mistakes will be made as time goes on, but up to the present we have no losses to report.

Savings Certificates.

The savings branch of the treasury had a successful year. The total net purchases of savings certificates amounted to $664,269.12. While the amount sold is somewhat less than the year 1921 it is rather more than was expected in view of the fact that the interest rate was reduced from five to four and a half per cent. The public have now become accustomed to the adjustment, and the daily sales are once more on the up grade.

Many enquiries have been received during the year from those interested in this unique plan, which has some advantages over the provincial savings bank idea in vogue elsewhere, since the scheme is very simple and the overhead charges small, e.g., in the year 1922 the cost of operation did not exceed one-quarter of one per cent.

Public Debt.

The total amount of debenture issues sold during the year 1922 was $15,695,800. Of this sum $6,048,000 was for refunding of old maturing issues, leaving the sum of $8,747,800 for new issues. Our gross debt has therefore been increased during the year 1922 to $67,373,279.41.

The telephone portion of this debt is of course self-supporting. This amounts to $23,186,963.11.

There is also a sinking fund of $1,694,014.29 so that the net debt of the province after deducting the telephone utilities and the general revenue portion of the sinking fund amounts to $42,894,342.09.

In the year 1923 there will be required the sum of $6,000,000 for capital borrowings, exclusive of our refunding issues, which amount to $7,100,900

Assets

I pointed out last year that a revaluation of our assets might be advisable. A revision of assets statement of previous years has been made. The chief alterations that have been made are the capitalization of our dominion subsidies and the reduction of school lands valuation from $12 per acre (which is the average price received in actual sales in past years) to the nominal valuation of $5.00 per acre. With these changes our assets now stand at $156,601,439.38.

These assets include an amount of $6,967,459.96 (per attached statement No. 7) which represents uncollected revenue and some cash on hand in the hands of departments not turned in to the treasury department at December 31st, 1922.

Comparative Statement Expenditures 1914-1921

I have before me a comparative statement of population and expenditure for the years 1914 and 1921.

This statement shows a remarkable divirgence between the increase in population during this period, which was only 9.17 per cent and the increase in expenditure in the various government departments. (Here read from statement No. 4.)

It is to stop this unwarranted growth in expenditures that this government is now directing its efforts. It is not difficult to see that strong measures will be necessary to accomplish our purpose.

Estimates 1923

I shall now review in a general way the estimates of revenue and expenditure for the year 1923 which you now have before you in printed form.

It has not been an easy task to bring these estimates down in their present form. Estimates had to be returned to departments repeatedly to be redrawn. The objective however was to reduce the estimated expenditure below last year's actual figures. This, I am glad to say, we finally accomplished on income account (exclusive of public charges which are fixed) by $645,010.55 and on capital account by $4,611,510.76 making a total net reduction from 1922 of $5,256,521.31, including telephone department. To do this many reductions were necessary, and it was with reluctance that we were compelled to curtail or eliminate certain services. As I have pointed out elsewhere, however, we still find a discrepancy of $1,016,239.15 between our expenditure and our income, and even this figure has not been arrived at without making use of a new revenue source to the extent of $500,000. It is not proposed however to attempt to strike a balance by further taxation but instead an attempt will be made to follow up last year's efforts at reductions in expenditures. If we are as successful as last year and our revenues do not fall below our estimates the result will be very satisfactory. Since our estimated revenues for 1923 are based on more conservative calculations than in previous years, there is some prospect of reducing the result of the year's operations to a more favorable balance than we are compelled to show in our estimates. Careful revision and study, however, will be required before it can be found where further cuts may be made.

A comparision of our estimated revenue and expenditure for the year 1923 with the actual for 1922 shows the following chief differences (statement No. 6).

Revenue Inceraeses

On school lands an expected increase of $58,810 is looked for. The provincial secretary's department shows an increase of $82,643.36. The department of agriculture estimates an increase of $101,991; the municipal affairs department $759,692; the public health department $152,257.18; King's printer's office $11,048.41, and there are some smaller increases which added make a total over last year of $1,167,841.78. These gross increases are, however, counterbalanced to some extent by decreases in other departments totalling $338,110.71 contributed to chiefly by the treasury department and the attorney general's department. I need not specify how these increases and decreases are made up since full details of last year's actual figures are shown opposite each item of estimated revenue and expenditure which you have before you.

Expenditures

On the expenditure side the public debt shows an unavoidable increase of $378,437.00 this being due to interest on new borrowings. There is also an increase in public health of $83,333.36, general administration purposes show an increase of $35,521.27 and miscellaneous $113,104.47. In all other departments a decreased expenditure will be shown made up as follows:

Civil government	$ 81,573.56
Legislation	6,264.45
Administration of Justice	66,912.24
Public Works	129,291.13
Education	119,309.70
Agriculture and Statistics	263,006.61
Railways and Telephones (railways branch)	5,482.31
Municipal Affairs	2,939.17

Making a gross total of reductions amounting to $674,779.21 (exclusive of telephones).

Sources of Revenue

You have already been informed of the very drastic reductions that have been made in our estimates to bring them to the lowest possible figure. In spite of these reductions, however, it was found that our income was short of our expenditure by $1,516,239.15. It therefore became clear that new sources of revenue were required to bridge the gap, and it has been necessary to impose net taxation under the following heads: Tax on mineral rights, tax on soft drinks, tax on slot machines. It is expected that these taxes will produce in all half a million dollars, and we will probably receive some additional revenue on succession duties owing to amendments.

Even with these additional revenues, however, we shall still be short of balancing our budget by $1,016,239.15, and it has not been deemed advisable at the present time to impose sufficent taxation to cover this. We reached this conclusion for the following reasons: first, we hope before the end of the year negotiations will have reached a point where we will know definitely whether the province can secure the transfer of our natural resources; second, the continuation of the policy of reduction in expenditure wherever possible will enable the government to estimate the minimum necessary to meet expenditures; third, a complete survey will be made of the provincial field of taxation in order that any increased taxation that may be found necessary be equitably imposed.

It is regretable that certain institutions and policies were established under former regimes without a proper realization of where they would lead to. There were demonstration farms which we have had to discontinue as such, agricultural schools provided for in excess of the needs of the province, homes for mental defectives planned on a large scale beyond our ability to support, and other institutions I need not mention in detail—all of which I agree are very praiseworthy objects, but which should not have been undertaken on such a large scale in a young province of small population and wealth. The time has not yet come when we can indulge in these things without endangering our finances. Some of these services may even be necessary, but others are luxuries, and could have waited until the individual wealth of our people could support them without being overburdened.

There were also rather indiscriminate guarantees of various projects to which we have been committed. Some of these have already come back upon us, and there will doubtless be others upon which we will have to make good our guarantee.

It is manifestly impossible at one stroke to abolish or even diminish in some cases the expenditure which the inauguration of these policies have incurred. This government, however, will do what it can to remedy matters, and I have no doubt that with the support of the people of the province we will yet be able to rehabilitate our finances.

Adjustment in Existing Services

The house will be asked to sanction certain adjustments in existing services, chief among them being:

A reduction in educational grants to primary schools, secondary schools, and the University of Alberta.

A reduction in the staff of school inspectors.

The discontinuation of the Normal school at Edmonton, there being sufficent accommodation at Calgary and Camrose.

The discontinuation of the summer school for teachers, unless arrangements can be made to place it on a self-supporting basis.

The closing of two more agricultural schools, the accommodation not being necessary for the number of students offering.

A reduction in the staff of public health nurses.

Heavy reduction in capital expenditure on public buildings, roads, bridges, etc.

And also certain changes of plans in the arrangements for care of mental patients in our provincial institutions by which a considerable saving on capital and income account expenditure will be made possible.

Conclusion

The ensuing year should bring some improvement in our financial position. The government is determined to reduce all expenditure, both capital and current, to the limit of sound economy. Every effort will be made to reduce or omit whatever service can be so dealt with without undue disturbance of public business.

Throughout the year an effort will again be made to keep expenditure in every department below the estimates. A careful survey of all departments and some measure of reorganization in departmental staffs will be made looking to a reduction in administration costs.

The time has come in the province when it must be clearly brought home to the people that there is a limit to what the government can do in the way of paternalism. We have overstepped that limit in Alberta in recent years and our people have learned to lean unduly on the government for assistance.

It is true that there have been very exceptional conditions to meet in some portions of the province. It is equally true that experience has shown that in some instances these conditions have been met too lavishly, and it is gratifying to note that this fact is being more and more recognized even in districts where the greatest assistance has been given in the past.

It is reflected also in a more reasonable attitude on the part of the public in their demands upon the government for assistance and for the creation of additional services.

Alberta is still a pioneering country and until our population increases materially it will be necessary to very carefully weigh any project involving heavy capital expenditure in order that the burden of interest charges on public debt may not bear unduly upon the people.

Six Cars of Alberta Coal Go East Today to Show Easterners Its Qualities

Mined in various parts of the province, six car loads of good Alberta coal start today on their journey eastward to illustrate to the people of the east what the fuel mined here really is, and what it can do when put to the test and given a fair chance.

There is a total of between 180 and 200 tons in the shipment two carloads of which are going to Ottawa consigned to the Hon. Charles Stewart, the balance being routed to Toronto in care of Premier Drury. Howard Stutchbury, provincial trade commissioner, will go east on Wednesday and will have charge of the fuel demonstrations in both cities, while tests will be conducted in Winnipeg by G. R. Pratt, Alberta government fuel engineer.

The intention is to test the Alberta coal in different furnaces and stoves, of whatever type are being most used in the east, and the demonstrations will probably extend over a period of three weeks. Only domestic coal is being sent east for the purpose, and it is planned to show Ontario householders that Alberta has just the fuel they require.

While in Ottawa, Mr. Stutchbury will appear before the fuel committee of the senate, which has asked him to give evidence on the coal question and in Montreal he will take up with Sir Henry Thornton the question of freight rates.

Mrs. Gertrude White

IF YOU ARE NOT WELL HERE IS YOUR KEY TO HEALTH!

Hattonford, Alta.—"Being run-down after the 'flu' I was in a weakened condition, had dizzy spells and shortness of breath, followed by faintness. The middle age period made things seem as though I'd never feel well again, but I was determined not to give up. Hearing of Dr. Pierce's famous Golden Medical Discovery I sent for a bottle, followed the directions, and soon felt less tired and faint, and finally I got back to my normal state. I have thanked God many times for the restoration of my health so I could remain with my family, and I gladly recommend this Discovery of Dr. Pierce's, for it is so pure, and worth a trial to any one who is run-down."
—Mrs. Gertrude White, Crystal Springs Farm.

Golden Medical Discovery is put up in Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont., and sold by all druggists in both tablets and liquid. Send Dr. Pierce 10c for trial package of tablets.

LLEN PLAYERS N THE ROSARY AT NEW EMPIRE

The Rosary" is this week's pre- tation at the New Empire the- by the Allen Players. The Rosary," in song, book and form, is one of the most fam- offerings before the public. It he play that is of particular in- st at the moment. For years it been one of the most consis- tly successful of all plays. A company can always be assured of meeting with success when it produces "The Rosary." In some sections, where advanced and most ultra-modern views hold sway, "The Rosary" is considered somewhat passe. Certainly it creaks pretty well in comparison to plays written contemporaneously, it seems a trifle old-fashioned. But be that as it may, "The Rosary" has a story of gripping intensity, fraught with heart interest of the most enthralling kind. He would indeed be a callous man who is not touched by "The Rosary."

The Allen Players have mounted the play in a sumptuous manner. The scenic effects are most impressive while the players appeared to take a keen, vital interest in their work.

Enid May Jackson, in the dual roles of Vera Wilton and Alice Marsh, the twin sisters, achieved a notable success. Her acting was of the superior order meriting the warmest plaudits.

Marvel Phillips as Lesura Watkins caught the spirit of the role to a nicety and turned in a most satisfying performance, Marguerite Klein as Kathleen O'Connor was sweet and winsome, and quite captivated the hearts of members of the audience.

Allen Strickfaden as Lee Martin has not done better in a light role since "The Tailor Made Man." His work was excellent to the 'nth degree. Earle Hodgins as Kenward Wright, gave a most convincing characterization of an unsympathetic role. Alan H. Pelch as Charley Harrow excelled himself. His performance last night was of a high order. Robert E. Lawrence as Bruce Wilton was all that could be desired. There was little, if anything to be wished for in his admirable acting. Al. Cunningham as Father Kelly gave one of the most artistic performances of his career. He imbued the role with sterling artistry from beginning to end.

Al. Preston and his orchestra were at the summit of their abilities and played a delightful program of music including a selection from "The Chocolate Soldier," "Beautiful Persia," and "Eleanor."

Empress

"THE WORLD'S APPLAUSE"

William de Mille, one of the best known picture producers in the country, has scored another triumph with his latest Paramount picture, "The World's Applause," which was shown with signal success at the Empress theatre last night. This is a production of the highest merit and it lacks little, if anything, to make it one of the premier pictures of the year.

The theme of the picture treats of the widespread passion for publicity that animates certain folk in public life and of the evil consequence that befall when scandal comes. Bebe Daniels, dainty as ever, has the role of an actress whose passion for publicity involves her in great trouble and who is saved through the heroism and self-sacrifice of a man whose love she had scorned, but which she finally is glad to recognize and reciprocate.

Lewis Stone, who is featured with Miss Daniels, is finely cast as John Elliot, a theatrical man whose self-sacrificing love brings the heroine to a realization of her folly.

There are many scenes of real dramatic power presented with that faithfulness to detail characteristic of alll William de Mille's picture productions.

NEW MANAGER FOR PANTAGES IS APPOINTED

H. W. Pierong Will Be Resident Manager of Theatre Which Opens Next Week

H. W. Pierong, the new resident manager of Pantages, has arrived in the city, and is already in the throes of re-modelling the theatre prior to its re-opening on Monday next.

When seen by "The Bulletin" yesterday, he spoke of his pleasure at being in Edmonton, as this city had always been one of the most favored at the Pantages general headquarters. Mr. Pierong stated that his opening bill would smack of novelty so far as the vaudeville world was concerned. It was what is termed in theatrical parlance a "unit show." That, in brief consists of four or five vaudeville acts, followed by an extravaganza, or musical comedy with a large company of its own in addition to which every player who has appeared in the previous acts, essays a role. The last act for the opening bill contains in the neighborhood of 25 girls.

Mr. Pierong heard the Veterans' band both in Los Angeles and San Francisco, and said that the boys are meeting with a succession of triumph on their tour of the "Pan" circuit.

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE IN MANTOBA

Winnipeg Tribune:

The Dominion charter of the Manitoba Pulp and Paper Company, the firm which will undertake the erection of a $4,000,000 railway and newsprint paper mill at Fort Alexander this year, was received from Ottawa today, local officials of the company announced.

Final completion of arrangements for the construction of the 20 mile railway, which will connect the Fort Alexander mill with the Canadian National railway at Grand Beach, are held up pending the enactment of the authorising bill in the provincial legislature, which is now in committee stage, but will be passed within a day or two, it is expected. When this bill goes through, active construction of the line will be commenced, and simultaneously the erection of the mill will start.

SOME STARTLING FIGURES

Montreal Herald.

By the census of 1920 there were resident in the U. S. 1,117,878 persons of Canadian birth, while by the Canadian census of 1921 there were 3, 788,483 people in all Canada.

If there are nearly a million and a half persons of Canadian birth in the United States, then it is probably quite true to say that there is at least an equal number of persons who orifinally emigrated to Canada and, after a more or less lengthly sojourn here, have gone to the United States. If in addition to those of Canadian birth, the children of those Canadians were counted, there is litle doubt that what may be claimed as the Canadian population of the United States would be at least equal to half the population of Canada.

BLOUSES
Not Shirtwaists FOR SPRING

COPYRIGHT BY McCALLS

The day when a blouse was a shirtwaist is gone forever. If there were any doubt about this fashion metamorphosis the new spring blouses would settle the question.

Overblouse styles every one of them, except out-and-out sport models. They glitter with metallic embroidery and blaze with all the colors. of the spectrum. Most of them are full bloused styles caught low on the hips with wide belts.

Egypt, Persia, India, Japan and China have contributed brilliant designs to the silks and cottons of which they are made.

NORMA TALMADGE'S Manners
By Norma Talmadge

© 1923 by NEA Service Inc

WOMEN of today seem bent upon realizing the fullest equality with men. They are not only willing but eager to accept the responsibilities that equality imposes. It's in keeping with this tendency of the times that women prefer to pay their own way. The mannerly man never insists on paying when a woman indicates by word or gesture that she prefers herself to pay.

WHO PAYS

1. A woman meeting a male acquaintance or friend on the street car, ferry or other low-priced public conveyance properly permits him to pay both fares, if he offers.

2. A woman chancing to meet a man in the depot, when she is about to purchase reading matter, candy or some other trifle, pays for it herself.

3. A woman meeting a man on the train pays all her own expenses, including tips, except that she may be his guest in the diner for not more than one meal.

4. Business girls frequently patronize the same restaurant as business men they know; should chance bring them together for lunch, the girls should ask quietly for "separate checks, please."

5. A man pays all expenses when a woman is his guest at the ball game, the races or similar places, including score cards, programs and refreshments.

IT'S BAD MANNERS for a man, sitting by chance beside a woman acquaintance on a train or boat, to offer to pay for anything she buys from a vendor.

The Tangle
AN INTIMATE STORY OF INNERMOST EMOTIONS REVEALED IN PRIVATE LETTERS
COPYRIGHT 1923 - NEA SERVICE INC

Letter from Paua Perier to her old flame, John Alden Prescott, whose engagement to Leslie Hamilton has just been announced.

MO CHERE JACQUES:

The papers tell me that very soon you are going to marry. Of course, when I read the notices all our old associations it brings up and I wonder—yes, Jacques, I really wonder—if you will ever be as happy with any other girl as you were with me. We were blissfully happy, ne c'est pas?

You have never mentioned me o this Miss Hamilton, I expect, but I am sure that to forget me you will not be able nevertheless; and sometime when things go wrong and wifie understands not, don't you know that old saying Jacques, "My wife is a lovely woman, but she does not understand"—well, when wife does not understand, perhaps to someone you will come back and you may tell again to her that her greatest charm is her understanding thorough.

We quarrelled so long ago. What was it about, Jacques? Silly it was, I konw and that you would come back immediately I was sure; but you did not, and too proud I was to ask you to return. And now, some other girl into your life has come.

You will be happy I sincerely hope, if only in that monotonous way which all married people fall into who claim to be happy. Possibly it is not for human beings to dwell on the mountain tops of love; the air is too rarified.

But I am getting romantic; to be very sensible I had intended, and to tell you that a bundle of letters I have tied up carefully in one of my bureau drawers.

I wonder how you would like them for a wedding present? Very interesting reading they would make for your wife, Jacques. I read one of them this morning. It made me feel quite unhappy. I shed a few tears. And very well you know that there is nothing or no one that is worth a tear in this world. But to realize this you have to go through affairs like yours and mine, wonderful dreams dreaming, and to stern reality wake up as I did when of your coming marriage I read.

To this letter what will you say? Whatever it is Jacques, you cannot from the fact get away that once I to you was the only woman in the world. Hundreds of times you have told me that better than life itself you loved me. I am still always to you the same.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO HIS FRIEND SYDNEY CARTON.

DEAR SYD:

I am sending you the S. O. S. sign, as you will readily see when you read the enclosed letter. Isn't it a fright? Isn't it just like that little French devil?

From it I can't tell whether she is trying to blackmail me into buying my letters from her, or whether she thinks that I am marrying to spite her or that as soon as I know her feeling toward me I will give up Leslie and fly to her again.

What in the devil is she getting at, Syd.?

I am much worried. I can tell you, for in the same mail with that letter I received one from Leslie asking if I had ever told another girl I had loved her—so you can see what a predicament I will be in if she ever finds out about Paula.

Good Lord, why do girls always want to be the first girl a man loves, when if they only knew it they are lucky to be the last?

For heaven's sake, Syd, come on over and help me out with this. I want you to go and see this girl; she what she is trying to get at, and above all else, get those letters away from her.

What a fool a man makes of himself when he puts silly vaporings upon paper? I did not mean it at the time, and I certainly do not mean it now. Why Syd, if anything should happen that I should lose Leslie now, I think I would commit suicide. Come over right away if you can. I don't want to write to Paula; I don't want to put any more compromising stuff on paper; but I want you to go to her and find out just what her game is.

Haven't much time to explain, old boy, and I know I'm asking a lot of you; but remember I would do as much for you under the same circumstances.

Yours in great trouble—JACK.

TELEGRAM FROM SYDNEY CARTON TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

Impossible for me to get over before Thursday. Sit tight and don't worry. Think I can fix it for you. Anyway yon know that I will do my best. There I've ducked; don't try to hit me again. I'll help you out of it, of course; but I can't help grinning. You were always so cocksure.

..Tomorrow—Letter from Leslie Hamilton, just engaged, to her girlhood friend, Beatrice Grimshaw.

CITY SCOUTS WILL SALUTE BADEN-POWELL

Meeting Held Yesterday Evening Decided on Program to Greet Chief

At a meeting of the Boy Scout association, held in Dr. Geo. H. Malcolmson's office in the McLeod building yesterday evening a definite program covering the forthcoming visit of General Sir Robert Baden-Powell was decided upon.

As far as is known at present, the chief scout will come from Saskatoon by the train arriving here at 9:15 a.m. on April 14 and on debarking the scout buglers will sound the general salute, which will be followed by the scout yell from the boys who will be formed up to greet him.

In the afternoon the various troops will form up in the market square, and headed by their drums and bugles will march down to the Prince of Wales armories, where "B. P." will inspect the boys and chat with them as is his usual custom.

Various evolutions will be gone through, in preparation for which a rehersal will be staged in the Prince of Wales armories at 7:30 p.m. on April 11th. The smaller boys—the Wolf Cubs—will indulge in the particular stunts peculiar to them, this phase being under the direction of Captain Van Tausk, district Cubmaster.

An endeavor will be made to have General Baden-Powell address a combined luncheon of the various clubs in the city at noon on the day of his arrival, a committee consisting of Dr. Malcolmson, W. Solway and H. V. McCreedy having been selected to attend to this matter.

A drum-head church parade will be held on Sunday, the boys meeting at the market square and marching down to the Memorial hall. It is expected that the Newsboy's band will lead the march as they have promised to cooperate at occasions of this description, but these and other similar arrangements were placed in the hands of the executive committee for action.

C.N.R. WILL RUN A SPECIAL CAR TO VANCOUVER

Arrangements have been made by the Canadian National railway to send a special car to the coast for the hockey series to be played there this week. With the Ottawa team winning last night, a special car will leave Edmonton Tuesday night and will arrive in Vancouver Thursday morning for the first of the games which is to be played Thursday night.

C.N.R. WORKERS PROTEST AGAINST CLOSING OF SHOPS

At a meeting of the C. N. R. Federation of Shop Trades held in the Labor hall yesterday evening strong protests were voiced against the shutting down of the railway shops here from the 22nd of this month until April 2nd. These were largely on the grounds that the Canadian government is advertising in old country papers for immigrants and inducing people to come to Canada while there is not sufficient work for those who are already resident in the dominion.

It was also illustrated that the rolling stock is at present in a deplorable condition, and that if the shops are closed this condition must become infinitely worse. Resolutions were drafted and ordered sent to the minister of immigration, Tom Moore and Sir Henry Thornton as well as to the divisional headquarters of employees.

J. Thompson occupied the chair at the gathering with B. Wishart attending to the secretarial work.

Simple Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where there are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

WOMAN SUFFERED FOR MONTHS

Weak and Nervous. Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Webbwood, Ont.—"I was in a very weak and run-down nervous condition, always tired from the time I got up until I went to bed. Sleep did not rest me at all. My sister recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and others told me about it, but it was from my sister's advice that I took it. It did not take long until I felt stronger, headaches left me and my appetite came back to me. I am a farmer's wife and have many things to do outside the house, such as milking, looking after the poultry, and other chores. I heartily recommend the Vegetable Compound to all who have the same trouble I had, for it is a fine medicine for women."—Mrs. LOUIS F. ELSASSER, Hillcrest Farm, Webbwood, Ont.

OTTAWA WINS SERIES FROM VANCOUVER

Senators Decisively Defeat Maroons in Fourth Contest

Ottawa Will Oppose Eskimos For Trophy

Senators Defeat Vancouver Decisively and Capture Semi-Final of Stanley Cup—Poorest Game of Hockey in Long Time—Maroons Could Not Get Going—Score Five to One

VANCOUVER, March 26.—The Ottawa Senators won the east-west series and their third game against Vancouver here tonight, 5-1. It was the poorest exhibition of hockey the Maroons have shown this winter.

The Vancouver team appeared unable to get properly underway. Ottawa opened strongly, making their plays in a confident manner. The Ottawa team played just such a game as they exhibited on local ice two years ago. Gerard came back into his old time form and up to the time when he was injured in the second period, played a stellar game. He was forced to leave the ice following a body checking by Corbett Denenny.

Gerard Injured

His shoulder was dislocated and left knee injured. Clint Benedict broke the heart of the Maroons when he stopped shot after shot which seemed to promise results. The skillful work of the Ottawa defence forced the opposing marksmen to send in many of their shots from awkward angles.

There is no doubt that the better team won on the showing made during the 4 games played. Only once during the series did Vancouver play as they have done all during the season. That was the second game which they won 4-1. In all the other encounters they appeared unable to combine or train their shots on goal. Ottawa played a steady, cool game and allowed no circumstances to fluster their work.

Boucher Was Good

Those who saw the game will remember George Boucher for his uncanny stickhandling and will also recall the forward line for their persistent, cool offensive and hard backchecking. The game tonight developed in the last period into a rally on the part of the Vancouver team. The whole team with the exception of Lehman were congregated in the Ottawa area. Whenever a Senator broke away, the Vancouver defence raced neck and neck with the play in an effort to prevent a goal.

Through over-anxiety the Maroons missed several chances to score when open nets yawned in front of loose pucks. Science was thrown to the winds for twenty minutes of wild battling. Only one goal resulted for Vancouver while Ottawa broke away and fooled Lehman twice. The one goal scored saved Vancouver from losing by a shutout and was heralded with relief by the fans. The Edmonton team, which will face Ottawa on Thursday night, watched the game. They feel confident from their observations that they will be able to take two out of the three games series they will be called upon to play to decide the world's championship.

Will Box Fifteen Rounds at a Charity Boxing Show in New York

NEW YORK, March 26.—Luis Firpo, South American contender for the heavyweight championship, has been matched with Farmer Lodge, of Minneapolis, for a 15-round contest at the charity boxing show on May 12 in the Yankee stadium, Tex Rickard announced today. Lodge has gained little recognition in heavyweight ranks to date, but he is a rival of Jess Willard in size, weighing around 235 pounds, and has earned something of a reputation as a "jaw-breaker" as a result of fracturing the chins of two opponents with knockout punches.

Eskimos Play First Game Thursday Eve

VANCOUVER, March 26.—The world's series hockey championships for 1923 will open in Vancouver on Thursday, March 29th, between Ottawa Senators, champions of the National Hockey league, and victors over Vancouver Maroons in the semi-finals, and the Edmonton Eskimos, champions of the Western Canada Hockey league. This announcement was made here tonight by President Frank Patrick, of the Pacific Coast league.

The second game of the series will be staged here on Saturday night, March 31. The Stanley cup will go to the team winning two out of three games.

VICTORIA HI WINNERS TWO CHAMPIONSHIPS

Capture the Senior High School Boys' Championship and Kirkland Cup

Two exciting and keenly contested games of basketball were staged in Victoria high school gymnasium yesterday afternoon. Victory in both games results in Victoria retaining possession of the Victoria cup, emblematic of the senior high school boys city championship and the Kirkland cup for boys of 125 pounds and under.

The junior game was a splendid exhibition for that class. At half time the score stood 12 to 7 in favor of Victoria. Then McDougall rallied until they led by two baskets but Vic again assumed the aggressive, turning defeat into victory by a splendid display of effective combination and carrying off the honors by a score of 25-22.

Powers and Cameron, forwards for Vic; Strand and Orr for McDougall all showed good form.

The big event of the afternoon provided the spectators with the best that senior high school boy basketeers can provide. Vic outplayed their rivals in every department of the game and never for a moment was their superiority in doubt. McDougall depended too much on heavy defensive tactics and a style which closely resembled line plunging, forgetting real team co-operation and the art of combination. At half time the score stood 25 to 9, Victoria leading, and the final 40 to 14 indicates very fairly the playing ability displayed.

For McDougall, Morrison, centre, and Burnett, defence, turned in very consistent games. For Victoria the honors were well divided between Pullishy, Worobets, Holgate, Gowda (Catp.), and the big train, Alex. Ropcean. The games were efficiently handled by Butchart of the University of Alberta.

REGINA CAPS WINNERS OVER VIC. COUGARS

WINNIPEG, March 26.—Regina Capitals, of the Western Canada Hockey league, took a one-goal lead over the Victoria Cougars, of the Pacific Coast league, here tonight, in the first game of a three-game series in which total goals will count for the honor of meeting the Ottawa Senators in the final exhibition series. The score was 6 to 5 and Regina Capitals deserved the verdict as they bored in closer and gave goalkeeper Fowler a busy time while the Patrick crew had trouble in beating the Regina defence.

Regina won through a fast getaway taking a three-goal lead in the first period, principally through the clever work of Dick Irvin and George Hay. Victoria came back strong in the second period when Frank Frederickson started on the rampage and the coast leaguers were only one down at the conclusion of the period with the score 5 to 4. Each team scored once in the final session which wound up in sensational style.

A packed house greeted the professional teams.

TORONTO, March 26.—University of Manitoba won the O.H.A. memorial cup, emblematic of the junior hockey championship of Canada, when they duplicated their performance of the first game and defeated Kitchener, O.H.A. title holders here tonight, 7 to 3.

The westerners were superior in all departments, and Siebart was the only Kitchener player to hold his opponent in check. The score on the round was 14 to 6.

Kitchener showed their best form of the game tonight in the first ten minutes, but the withering pace told heavily on them and the lightning fast students ran in 2 goals before the intermission. In the second period they added three more. Kitchener got the first goal in the third, but Manitoba grabbed the next two and then took matters easy for the balance of the game.

In Murdock, the University of Manitoba has one of the best players in amateur ranks. He has ability to star in senior company next year. He scored five goals tonight and assisted in one other thus accounting for ten goals out of fourteen in the series.

EXHIBITION ASSOCIATION MAKE PLANS

Miss Leona McIntosh, Winter Carnival Queen, to Be Queen of Spring Carnival

Miss Leona McIntosh, queen of the winter carnival, is also to be queen of the spring carnival, for according to the decision of the executive of the Edmonton Exhibition association which met in the Civic block Monday afternoon, she will be asked to be the official guest of the spring show. She will be asked to bring with her, her official guard, the National band, which chanted her fame at the Edmonton winter carnival, and incidentally won for themselves, fame and glory.

Prices of seats were arranged at $1.00 for box seats, 75c for the first three rows of reserved seats and 50c for the rest, with the exception of Saturday afternoon when any seat in the house will be 25c to adults and children go free. Children under twelve years of age have free admittance any time during the show, except when they ocupy reserved seats.

The Saddle club is putting on a number of features this year and will take part in a street parade the first day of the show, that is expected to outshine anything of the kind ever staged here. A game called musical pews, corresponding apparently to musical chairs, is the attraction one night and whether the horses or the riders have to sit on the chairs has not yet been announced. A Gretna Green race will also be put on, one evening of the show.

NEW POLICY FOR RELIEF TO THOSE SEEKING HELP

The Edmonton welfare board are adopting a new policy in giving relief to persons out of work. In the future according to the committee no assistance will be given unless the persons asking for help will do something to help themselves.

This year there has been an insistant call for relief and the demand is continuing longer in the spring than usual. The committee do not view this situation with great satisfaction, and are taking steps to make the men applying for relief do something for themselves.

As the weather becomes warmer relief will be discontinued unless the men are ready to get into the country and take such work as is being offered. When a farm job is open a man will be expected to take it and leave his family until there is work nearer home.

The Unfamiliar Triangle

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Copyright, 1922, by E. Phillips Oppenheim Arrgt NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Venedtta begins between Michael Sayers, noted criminal, and Sir Norman Greyes, once of Scotland yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, Janet, saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead an officer sent to arrest him. Janet becomes Sayers' wife and accomplice. In the Leeds bank robbery Michael narrowly escapes capture and is forced to flee the country.

Janet receives a legacy of two hundred and fifty pounds and takes passage to Marseilles. During the journey she makes friends with a Mr. Popple, who warns her to keep away from a passenger named Louisa Martin. Louisa visits Janet's stateroom and reveals herself as one of Michael's confederates. A wireless comes to Louisa in care of Janet.

Now go on with Story

"Wait here," she ordered, snatching the message from my hand.

There was a heavy swell that night and I was glad to sit down upon m bunk. She returned in a very few moments. Her cheeks were flushed. She handed me back the message. Underneath it she had pencilled the interpretation:

"Danger 97 it must be dealt with promptly Louisa."

I looked at it and shook my head.

"I suppose I am a fool," I admitted, "but I can't undestand a word."

"You are a fool," she agreed. "No wonder Michael never trusted you with a code. It means that some one dangerous must be traveling in Stateroom 97 who must be dealt with promptly by me—Louisa—my name. Do you understand now?"

"But how could Michael know that was on the steamer, and why should he have sent this message to me instead of to you?" I demanded.

"The chief of police at Marseilles has a copy of every passenger list of steamers leaving London and calling at Marseilles, forwarded overland," she replied. "Michael has a friend in the Bureau. It is possible that I am being watched. He knew quite well that I should find you out, and that I should be of more use than you were likely to be . . . Now to discover who is traveling in Stateroom 97."

She called to the steward, who was passing outside. He unhooked the door and looked in.

"Steward, can you tell me the name of the gentleman in No. 97?" she inquired.

"Mr. Popple, madam—an American gentleman," he announced.

"What are you going to do?" I asked.

She smiled in a peculiar fashion.

"Obey Michael," she answered softly.

The next morning, Mr. Popple came over and talked to me again. He had shown me from the first a considerable amount of attention, but his conversation had always been of the most ordinary kind. This morning, however, in the midst of a discussion of ladies' footwear, he broke off and addressed me in different fashion.

"So you're making friends with the woman who looked as though she wanted to bite your head off at Gibraltar!" he remarked.

"I shouldn't have said so," I replied cautiously.

"She was in your stateroom last night wasn't she?" he queried.

"For a moment or two," I admitted. "Why not?"

He watched the smoke from his cigar thoughtfully.

"I guess ou've got common-sense enough to take a word of advice," he said. "Here it is. Keep out of it."

"Keep out of what?" I demanded.

He shrugged his shoulders.

"That's a fine shoal of porpoises," he observed, looking over the side of the ship. "I don't know as I've ever seen a finer in these waters."

"In other words—" I ventured smiling.

"Incident closed," he declared. "Maybe I've opened my mouth too wide as it is."

So, although I knew now for certain that Mr. Popple was a detective I said no word of this to Louisa, even though, during the next few hours, I witnessed an amazing development of their acquaintance. They sat together for several hours and Lousia's beautiful eyes seemed every moment to become more eloquent. Without a doubt she had made up her mind to captivate him, and to all appearance she was succeeding.

I was walking up and down the deck with the doctor, and we heard scraps of their conversation as we passed—an assignation for the morrow evening at Marseilles, proposed boldly enough by Mr. Popple, and assented to by a timorous but eloquent flash of the eyes by Louisa. After dinner they took their coffee out on deck. Their heads were even closer together, their voices dropped. People, as they passed, began to smile. It was obvious that an affair was in progress. I was surprised, therefore, to hear Mr. Popple suddenly address the doctor, who had joined me again for a few minutes.

"Just a moment, doc."

We stopped at once. Mr. Popple seemed to rise with difficulty to his feet.

"Guess I am sick, Doc'. Just step around to my stateroom with me for a moment."

Mr. Popple, sudenly very pale, swayed on his feet and clutched at the doctor's arm. I expected every moment to see him collapse. We all turned to Louisa. She shook her head, apparently as bewildered as the rest of us.

"We had just finished our coffee," she explained, "when Mr. Popple, who had been talking a great deal, became silent. He spoke of a pain in his head, and thought he seemed queer. Then he called out to the doctor. That is all I know about it."

By degrees the others melted away. I sank into Mr. Popple's vacant chair. As soon as we were alone, Mrs. Louisa Martin looked at me covertly. There was a flash of triumph in her half-closed eyes.

"So!" she murmured. "I do not think that Mr. Popple will follow me about Marseilles."

"Do you mean that you have poisoned him?" I gasped.

She looked at me with a queer little smile.

"Some" she said, "prefer to shoot. I choose the way of safety."

Then I knew that Michael had told her everything. In that moment all that I had ever felt of love for him turned to hate. . . .

We entered the harbor at Marseilles late on the following morning, and drifted down on our way to the side waiting prepared to land but waiting for the gendarmes at the farther end of the gangway to give the word. Suddenly I felt a thrill pass through my whole body. Leaning with his back to one of the wooden pillars was a man with tanned, almost swarthy skin, lean-faced, with a hungry, wolflike droop to his thin lips. He was shabbily dressed even for a laborer. Yet I knew Michael, and although he never glanced again in my direction I knew that he had recognized me. I made my way to where Louisa was standing, and I touched her on the arm.

"Look there," I said, directing her attention cautiously toward the lounging figure.

She looked at him for a moment without interest. Then suddenly the change came into her face. She clutched at my arm.

"There is danger," she muttered. "He has been obliged to flee. Alas, our week at the Villa exists no longer!"

A moment afterward, there was a movement toward the gangway. I followed the others off the ship, and waited until a magnificent-looking functionary, smelling of garlic, had made mystic signs with a piece of chalk upon my modest trunk. The porter shouldered it and turned to me for instructions.

"A carriage to the Hotel Splendide," I directed.

I was on the point of entering it when I felt a touch upon my arm.

"He insists upon seeing you," she whispered in a low tone. "Where are you going?"

"To the Hotel Splendide," I told her with a sinking heart.

"I shall fetch you tonight at six o'clock."

"Why does Michael want to see me?" I asked reluctantly.

"One does not ask Michael questions," she answered with a sneer. "You should have found that out by this time."

I felt as though an ugly cloud were looming over this wonderful holiday of mine, and I spent a restless and unsatisfactory afternoon. At six o'clock Louisa came for me in a small fiarce, and we drove slowly and with horrible jolts into one of the foulest seacoast slums one could imagine. I began to feel fear.

"Where are we going?" I demanded.

"To the only place where Michael can hide in safety," Louisa replied. "Even the police of Marseilles would scarcely dare to seek him here."

We stopped at last at the end of a dark and narrow street, a place so squalid and unsavory that I hesitated to leave the vehicle. Louisa, however, elbowed me out and half-pushed, half-conducted me along an entry, with a high wall on either side, a slimy place with the swish of waves distinctly audible. At the extreme end she pushed open a door on the left-hand side. We found ourselves in a cafe of the poorest class with sanded floors and iron tables. A woman, fat and with a hideous face, stood behind the bar.

Louisa went straight to the woman and whispered in her ear. The woman, who had at least three or four chins, nodded ponderously and smiled, showing a row of yellow, dis-colored teeth. She glanced cautiously around the place, as though to make sure that no stranger was amongst her clientele. Then, with a fat, beringed finger, she beckoned us behind the counter and led us down some steps, along a passage, into a somber and fearsome-looking apartment tawdrily furnished, with a cracked gilt mirror upon the mantelpiece, walls reeking with damp, and some violet plush chairs of incredible shabbiness. In the corner was a bed and upon it Michael was seated, still in his disguise of a French ouvrier, but with a new look upon his face—the hunted, desperate look of a man at bay.

"You devil!" he said to me slowly and menancingly. "It is you who have brought your damned lover-policeman here!"

"It is false," I replied. "I came to Marseilles for a holiday only."

"A holiday!" Michael repeated bitterly.

EASING THE STRAIN.

The Dominion income tax law is being amended so as to bear less heavily upon the man who has a family, and a moderate revenue with which to provide for them. Hitherto he has been given exemption to the amount of $300 for each child. The amount is being raised to $500; and the father of five children under eighteen years of age will not be called upon for anything unless his income is $5,000 or more per year. The amendment is certainly in the right direction, and liberality is not being carried to excess. The Dominion's debts have to be paid of course, but it is better to pay them by cutting out unnecessary expenditure than by keeping taxation at the point where people are forced to live meanly or get out of the country; and the figures of the Labor Department disprove the notion that a child can be properly kept at a cost of $300 per year.

THE DECIDING FACTOR.

The provincial coal commissioner is getting letters from points in Ontario telling how pleased people are with Alberta coal, and expressing a hope that the eastern province may in future draw its fuel supply from this favored part of the Dominion instead of from points across the line. That of course is very encouraging, and in line with what might be expected. But in the matter of marketing our coal it will not do to depend too much upon the satisfactory character of the coal and the influence of sentiment. The price is the big factor when the householder in Ontario or anywhere else comes to lay in his winter's fuel supply. Alberta coal is good coal, and the fact that it is mined in Canada ought to give it a preference in Canadian markets, but it cannot be sold largely except if and when it can be laid down at a competitive price. If we cannot get lower freight rates we cannot look for any great demand for Alberta coal in Ontario in the immediate or early future.

WHEN MONEY VALUES SHRINK.

The Government at Berlin is now reporting its deficits in thirteen figures. There is some consolation in that for Alberta taxpayers. The Provincial Government only needs seven digits to show how far it goes behind in a year; and eight more to show how much has been added to the public debt. The difference is to quite an extent due to the fact that in Alberta we are not using fiat money. Figured out in terms of the German exchange medium our provincial deficit for last year runs up to the neat total of 64,000,000,000 marks, and the capital debt which the Government was authorized to incur foots up to 384,000,000,000 marks. If our fiat money friends had their way the figures from Berlin would not look nearly so out of the common, as they do to people who are used to handling money that is worth something. And it is to be remembered that for every mark that is issued the people of Germany are pledged to deliver 23 cents worth of real gold, which they can only get by the sweat of their brows. Diluting the currency is about the last and poorest way to bring about a material millenium.

DIS-UNION IS DANGEROUS

The Calgary board of trade seems to think that if Alberta continues to demand lower rates on grains shipped to Pacific ports that will defeat the hopes of getting the same rates on general merchandise shipped from eastern Canada to Alberta points as on through shipments to Vancouver. Just why that should follow is not clear. Both claims are based upon justice. There is no reason why Alberta wheat should not be hauled westward as cheaply as eastward, the gradients to be overcome being in favor of westward shipment. And there is equally no reason why shipments from eastern Canada to points in Alberta should be penalized by heavier rates than are charged for shipments through to the Coast. If the railway directorates were free to make what rates they pleased, it is conceivable that the one concession might be demanded for the other. But the railway commission is supposed to determine rates, on a basis of equity. There is no apparent reason why the commission should subject Alberta to injustice in one direction as the price of giving it justice in the other. Both claims being valid, both should be urged. If the people of this province have been overcharged alike on what they sent out and on what they brought in, that is not very convincing argument that they should consent to be overcharged on their export grain in future that they may be treated fairly in the matter of imported commodities. And it is fairly possible that unless they stand together in the demand for both claims they will get neither.

STALLING THE REDS.

The Greenfield Government has no intention of starting a provincial bank. That is deducible without difficulty from the debate on the banking question which was held in the Legislature, from the part which the Government took in the proceedings, and still more from the part which it did not take. In fact it is the only conclusion possible from the positive and persistent refusal of the Ministers to say what their policy is on that matter. A more favorable opportunity could not have been presented for announcing to the world that Alberta intended to take the road which lead North Dakota to the swamp—if such were the intention. The Ministers were invited to make use of the occasion. They were urged, pressed, challenged and dared to say whether or not they proposed to carry out the instructions given them at the recent convention of the U.F.A. all in vain. The Government was not being "drawn" in that direction, not a little bit. The Minister of Agriculture did the talking for the treasury benches, and he talked away from the provincial bank proposal just as fast and as far as possible. Supporters of the Government, of course, paid oratorical respect to the proposal, and to the all-powerful organization which backs it, but they did not vote that way. When the show-down came only one of them stood pat and voted for the abolition of the present banking institutions and their replacement by Government banks. So that's that. So far as the Government and its supporters in the Legislature are concerned the provincial bank scheme is as dead as King Tutankhamen.

That being the case, the farmers will have to get along with the present banks, if they want to do any banking business. The question of what changes should be made in the present banking law, if any, to meet the chorus of complaint that has been coming from a section of the farming community is thus thrust into the foreground. The Bank Act is due to be revised at the present session of Parliament. The member for Leduc proposed that the Legislature should ask parliament to study the matter from the standpoint of the Western farmer, and see if the banking business could be adapted more nearly to his financial requirements. But the Ministers and their followers would have none of that. They were not making banking law, and did not propose to give either Ottawa or the farmer the benefit of their advice as to how the law should be changed and the banking practice readjusted. They ran the road-roller over that suggestion; by an amendment which calls upon Ottawa to leave the Bank Act alone for a year. Whatever real or fancied grievances the farmer has against the banks as at present operated he is due to put up with them for another year if the advice of the U.F.A. Government and its Legislative followers is acted upon by Parliament. That sounds strange, coming from a Government that was landed in power by a tidal wave of rural discontent with existing conditions; and depends for support upon the farmers' organization which for years on end has formally and freely denounced the banks as monopolistic, grasping and inefficient, and called for some arrangement that would enable the farmer to get more money than the banks will lend him at lower rates of interest than they charge. At least it might have been supposed that if the ministers were not prepared to set up a provincial bank according to promises and instructions they would have wanted something done to the existing banks. Not if votes mean anything. The amendment to the Tobin resolution, passed by the Legislature against the votes of all non-U.F.A. members, asks Ottawa to leave the farmer and the banks to pull along as they have been doing for another year.

The anomaly of course has a political interpretation. The government has no intention of going into the banking business, for good, sufficient and altogether creditable reasons. But it has no intention of flaunting that provoking fact in the faces of the radicals in the U.F.A. organization. The ministers are not minded to commit political suicide, and the red element has the upper hand in the organization at present. To flatly announce that the provincial bank scheme was a delusion and a snare with which the government would have nothing to do would produce an explosion in the camp which might wreck the whole party machinery, and would almost certainly land the ministers back on the farm. Things being as they are most of them likely wish that they were there, but they do not want to go in that violent way. Hence the resolution to stall matters for a year, leaving the provincial bank question in suspense. Perhaps the U.F.A. will change its mind before the next convention is held, and anyway the evil day is postponed for a year.

LAST YEAR'S LOSS.

Winnipeg Tribune

The dangers the legislatures of the three prairie provinces are courting for the farmers are illustrated by the course of the wheat market last fall. The agitation for the wheat board last year brought half-baked legislation on to the statute books, and a strenuous effort was made to give effect to it. What the result would have been if the wheat board had been brought into operation no one can say, but it is clear from the market record that the mere threat of it caused a loss to the farmers of many millions. The ordinary channels of the grain trade were rendered useless for the time being, and the serious result is reflected in the position of the farmers today.

A rough estimate is possible of the actual loss. Due to the fact that the establishment of a wheat board was a possibility up to the end of August, Winnipeg dealers were unable to contract in advance for sales in September and later. Chicago on the other hand had all the ordinary facilities of trade.

During July No. 1 Northern in Winnipeg averaged 137 in price. In Chicago the average was 111, or 26 cents less.

During September the average price in Winnipeg was 100, and Chicago averaged 104, or 4 cents more.

No other factors of any importance were operating to change the relative positions of the two markets. The difference fairly chargeable to the wheat board agitation was therefore about 30 cents a bushel.

During September Western Canada marketed 39,324 cars of wheat or about 53,000,000 bushels, chiefly Manitoba wheat. The loss sustained, chiefly by Manitoba farmers, was therefore in the neighborhood of $15,000,000

Montreal Gazette:

It is time that the people of Canada awakened to a realization that the madness of Bolshevism is not a faraway thing, which, after ruining Russia, may infect adjacent European or Asiatic nations, but from which this country is safe by reason of its distance from the point of origin of the mental malady of which Communistic theories are the symptoms. The Winnipeg strike was a direct result of the efforts of Canadian Bolshevists to put their pernicious doctrines into practical effect, and the fact that leaders in that strike are today sitting in the Dominion Parliament, provincial legislatures and municipal councils is proof that their hold upon large sections of the electorate has not been loosened by their failure to carry their purposes into practice. Cable despatches have told of the Bolshevik Sunday Schools which exist in England and Scotland for the misleading of the youth of the land, and now Bishop Farthing makes the startling announcement that such schools are being conducted in Montreal, recruiting their pupils not only from the alien elements which fall an easy prey to the perverted views and loose arguments of the agitators, but also from among the French-speaking and the English-speaking children, teaching them to disbelieve in the Deity, to scorn all constituted authority and to disregard the elemental principles of morality.

FIGURING IT OUT

Winnipeg Tribune:

It may be taken for granted that, barring unforeseen emergencies such as war or disastrous crop failures in all other parts of the world, wheat this fall will not sell for much more than a dollar a bushel. In the past marketing season the price fell below that level. Figuring one dollar as a fair estimated price, the wheat board could not advance more than 70 per cent as an initial payment—which means, taking No. 3 Northern as the average grade at the average spread, an initial payment of exactly 64 cents. Deducting from this an average freight charge of 15 cents, it leaves 49 cents for the first payment to the farmer, but of this he must pay 12 cents (the average may run somewhat higher) as threshing charges, and at least 1¾ cents for elevator charges at the shipping point. There is just 35 cents a bushel left to go to the farmers, and nothing more for 12 or possibly 14 months.

How many farmers could afford to hold on to participation certificates with only 35 cents net for a first receipt? Banks can take no other view than that with 70 per cent already allowed on the estimated price the loan value of participation certificates will be nil. The farmer will be left for a year or more without any more income than the initial payment provides. It means that great numbers of farmers will be brought back to the brink of bankruptcy by the functioning of the wheat board. They will be forced to sell their participation certificates for any price speculators choose to offer. Their total income under the wheat board will be less than it was last fall under the open market.

THE RESULT OF HIGH TAXATION

Regina Leader:

The drift of population from Canada to the United States has assumed proportions that are causing grave concern to those who remain behind. The past year has seen tens of thousands of Canadians, artisans as well as farmers, emigrate southward. There is not a city of any size in the country that has not felt the effect of this outward movement of population. The statement has been made that there is today in our own city not more than eight skilled bricklayers and that other crafts have lost members in much the same proportion.

Among the causes of this urban emigration, unemployment and the high cost of living are undoubtedly the most powerful; and the burden of taxation—federal, provincial and municipal—which the people are compelled to carry is an important contributing factor to both the cost of living and unemployment. When taxation is so heavy as to impede business it throws out of work those who depend upon business for their livelihood, and they must seek employment elsewhere. When it eats up an excessive share of the bread-winners' income the most natural thing for him to do is to emigrate to the nearest country where he can live more cheaply.

Over many of the causes that combine to feed this stream no single city has complete control; but over some of the contributing causes every city has a measure of control. Among these is taxation. We cannot in this city dictate what federal or provincial taxes we shall pay and we cannot control the municipal tax rate that is required to meet expenditures already made or voted; but what we can do is to see to it that further expenditures are kept down to a minimum. And unless we do that, we have no right to complain when hundreds of our citizens pack up and move out. We cannot afford to admit that every improvement demanded by an interested section of the citizenry should be carried out at this time unless it can be shown that the need for it is vital to the continued progress of the city.

That this country and its people can be saved from bankruptcy only by cutting down expenditures is the opinion of the most eminent financiers in Canada. Country and people have reached a point where it is necessary for them to try to get along for the time being with the facilities they now possess. They must examine these facilities and discover how they can be made to go further and afford larger accommodation than in the past. We have got to "squeeze up, as it were, and postpone expansion and extension of facilities of all sorts until times are better—or the tax rate will continue to climb and the number of taxpayers continue to diminish through emigration.

Uncommon Sense

THE OUTDOOR COLLEGE

For the mind capable of interest, interest is everywhere.

And interest is education.

Always outside the door is a university where men can go and gather learning, if they will.

And the "busy season" of this university is Spring, when the world wakes from its sleep and begins to move.

For motion is always fascinating, as the baby discovers as soon as his brain is sufficiently developed to wonder about the message his wide-open little eyes bring to it.

An aged friend of the writer's who never went to school more than two weeks in his life, has become, within the last ten years, an authority on trees.

For years he had seen trees all about him, considering them merely as trees.

Then one day he began to wonder how they grew—how they came to be trees instead of tomato plants or flowers.

He has not yet made the latter discovery.

But he has found out many interesting things about them, and every day he adds to this store of knowledge.

It is a source of real religion to study a tree—to think of it from the time the seed or nut is planted, till its branches spread hundreds of feet wide, supple; so no gale can break them, yet strong enough to support vast weights.

In the maple sugar country one can see the sap dripping from the little skin of outer bark—sap that turns to sugar when boiled in a kettle but which, if allowed, to flow on its way upward, drawn by a power no scientist fully understands, would become leaves and blossoms and bark and hard-grained timber.

To the farmer, a maple tree is a maple tree, good for so many pounds of sugar while it stands and for so many feet of hard-wood lumber or so many cords of firewood when it is felled.

To my old friend, it is a wonderful laboratory of the important work that nature has to do, a machine more complicated and delicate than any that man can contrive.

It was his first thought about a tree that gave him the desire for an education—an education which did not stop with trees, and botany and geology.

His university has given him a mind that "to him is a Kingdom." The same university is open to every man who can step outside his door in the country or to any city dweller who can walk or drive as far as the nearest park.

NEW TRIAL IS GRANTED MRS. CHRISTENSEN

Appellate Court Rules That the Verdict of Guilty Be Set Aside

Mrs. Irene May Christensen, sentenced to death for the murder of her husband and now in the cells at Fort Saskatchewan, has been granted a new trial on the orders of the judges of the supreme court, judgment having been handed down yesterday afternoon.

In his summing up of the evidence given at the trial conducted before Mr. Justice McCarthy, Mr. Justice Beck points to the condemned woman's evidence telling of a continuous course of cruelty on the part of the deceased husband, which commenced a month or two after marriage, and concludes by saying "In the result, my opinion is that the verdict should be set aside and a new trial directed."

Mr. Justice Stuart's decision was concurred in by Mr. Justice Hyndman, his resume of the case concluding with the following paragraph "I would therefore answer the question in the affirmative with the consequence that there must be held to have been a mistrial. The conviction must therefore be set aside on this ground, and a new trial ordered."

Of necessity both documents relative to the conduct of the trial were very lengthy and a great number of points were touched upon by the judges. Mr. Justice Stuart referring at length to the trial judge's charge to the jury and stating that "The learned judge probably told the jury not the wrong law, but rather too much good law."

Another important phase of the trial hinged on the evidence given by the dying man. Mr. Justice Stuart's finding being "The only real doubt I have had on the point arises from the consideration that there seems to be some ground at least for a suspicion that the written statement signed by the deceased was obtained by means of questions and answers, and these such took place were not stated at all in the evidence.

They Combat the Film
Those people you see everywhere with whiter, cleaner, safer teeth

Go now and ask for this delightful test. Learn how easy it is to fight film on teeth.

You see glistening teeth wherever you look today. Learn how people get them.

There is now a new method of teeth cleaning which millions have adopted. Dentists the world over now advise it. Careful people of some 50 nations now employ it daily. Find out what they know.

That dingy film

That viscous film you feel on teeth is their great enemy. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays.

Food stains, etc., discolor it, then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film. That's why teeth lose luster.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. That's why few escaped tooth troubles.

Germs breed in film by millions. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Also of other serious troubles.

Old ways inadequate

No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats film. So the tooth brush left much film intact.

Dental science has now found two ways to fight that film. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then a new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. Those two film combatants were embodied in it for daily application.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent. To millions of homes the world over it is bringing a new dental era.

Other new effects

Pepsodent does other things which research proves essential. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids, the cause of tooth decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Thus Pepsodent gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents.

Avoid Harmful Grit
Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

New beauty comes

See what new beauty comes from whiter teeth. Learn the new daintiness that comes from cleaner teeth. You will be amazed and delighted.

Go get this free tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

You will want those results continued for everyone in your home. Cut out the coupon now.

SEVEN CAR LOTS OF STEERS FOR SPRING SHOW

Indications Are for the Best Fat Stock Ever Put on in Edmonton

Seven carlots of steers and twenty odd entries in the five groups had been made for the spring show Monday morning and the entries were still coming and would be received up to a late hour Monday night as the office was held open late for the accomodation of last minute exhibitors.

There is every indication that it will be the best fat stock show ever put on in Edmonton, and very likely in western Canada. There is also a good number of pigs and sheep entered. Standards have been —up entered. Standards are becoming higher and higher each year, so it is expected that the fat cattle, sheep and hogs that will be shown at this year's spring show should be a real demonstration of what can be done in the way of finishing stock in Alberta.

The Jameson Construction company of Irma has apparently been constructing beef during the past winter for they have entered one car lot and three groups of five; the Kleskun Lake Ranching company of Sexsmith have two car lots and a group of fives; B. B. Roberts, Vegreville, has in two car lots and three groups of five; W. Armitage, Sedgwick, has in a car lot and a group of five; Dale Williams, Vermilion, has a group of five; Dale was at one time an outstanding winner in the children's competitions; F. M. Whiteside, Stettler, has also a group of five, as well a a single steer entry; the Tofield Coal company has entered two pens of five; W. L. Robinson one pen of five; P. Gabriel, Erskine, has a group of five entered; Frank W. Tye of Sedgwick, has a pen of five as well as several single steers; Esper D. Burghardt of Lougheed has a pen of five and W. A. Burghardt also of Lougheed has three pens of five.

Chas. W. Brinton, Vegreville, Willian H. Betson, Westlock, and David Cameron, Vermilion, have single steer entries.

HEAVY SELLING REACTS UPON N.Y. MARKET

Higher Call Rates and Speculative Apprenhension Reasons for Selling Pressure

NEW YORK, March 26.—Heavy selling for both accounts brought about another sharp reaction in today's stock market. Higher call money rates and speculative apprehension over the outcome of the meeting of the governors of the federal reserve board in Washington this week were outwardly attributed as the reasons for selling pressure but the numerous sales of large blocks of recent speculative favorites indicated liquidations by pools, which had become discouraged by their failure to attract an outside following.

At the close of business tonight the averages showed that approximately half of the year's extreme gains had been forfeited in the last week with many industrials being quoted four to ten points below their high figures of the year.

DIES OF INJURIES

VICTORIA, March 26.—C. J. Gardiner, proprietor of the Gardiner Logging company, died today from injuries received when he was caught between two logs.

City Police Court

Dismissals were the order of the day in the city police court on Monday. Steve Dimitroff, charged with selling oranges on Sunday, was dismissed; Z. S. Risby, accused of the non-support of his wife and family was also discharged, as was George Gordon charged with assaulting Mrs. Annie Grumas.

Agonising! Weakening!

Before finding a remedy in Zam-Buk, many piles sufferers say that they hardly knew where to put themselves for the agonising, itchy, burning pain. Loss of blood made others so weak and ill that they despaired of ever being well again.

But inflammation, pain and swelling vanish under the influence of herbal Zam-Buk that is why it is such a fine soothing remedy for ulcers, abscesses, piles, boils, eczema, ringworm, poisoned wounds, burns, scalds, etc.

PILES

"I suffered the agonies of piles for a long time," says Mr. Jas. Ruddy, of Killaloe, Ont. "I wasted lots of money on professed 'pile remedies.' But my weakening malady defied everything but Zam-Buk. To my joy, this great herbal healer speedily allayed the itchy, burning irritation. As I kept up the Zam-Buk applications the piles were gradually but completely banished."

Had Constipation for Six Months Was Relieved by Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills

A free motion of the bowels daily should be the rule of everyone, then there will be no constipation, sick or billous spells, heartburn, foul breath, sour stomach, etc.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills will regulate the flow of bile to act properly on the bowels, thus making them active and regular, removing the constipation and all its allied troubles.

Mrs. R. C. Hunt, Port George, N.S., writes: "I have been troubled by being constipated for the last six months.

"My tongue has been terribly coated, so much so that it made my breath bad. I was talking to a friend about it, and she advised me to use Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, which I did, and now I am perfectly well. My tongue is as smooth as it was before I got that way, and I owe it all to your Pills, of which I only used two vials."

SULPHUR CLEARS A PIMPLY SKIN

Apply Sulphur as Told When Your Skin Breaks Out

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur and use it like cold cream.

Grain Markets

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, March 26.—Buying power was limited on the wheat market here today and prices eased off under a somewhat light trade in futures. The market opened firm, about 1-4 cent higher, following slightly higher cables, but trading was very quiet and there were no indications of business as far as export is concerned. The market closed weak around the low for the day, both futures recording a loss of 5-8 from Saturday's close.

Cash wheat prices were about unchanged, both for spot and opening of navigation. Opening of navigation trade continues very largely the selling of cash wheat on a carrying charge basis. A little business was reported this morning at quarter cent under the May.

There is a good demand for oats and some business is being worked daily from stocks that are at lower lake ports. One milling company is credited with buying 50,000 bushels to go west on Saturday. Other coarse grains continue quiet. The flax market continued strong with local speculative interests and United States crushers reported as buyers.

Inspections totalled 162 cars of which 87 were wheat.

MONTREAL, March 26.—Trading on the stock exchange today continued dull with a generally weak tone prevailing. Changes in the narrow range of issues were, however, in no cases important. Dominion Textile led in activity and closed at 71 (ex-dividend) for a net gain of a point. Steel of Canada closed at 76 5-8 for a net loss of 1-4.

Canadian Cottons and Illinois Traction made an advance of 1 1-2 points at 134, and 42, respectively. The greatest loss was suffered by Dominion Bridge and MacDonald, both of which were off 2 points at 74, and 8, respectively. Two new highs were registered in Ontario steel at 46, and Winnipeg Railway preferred at 86 1-4.
